BONESEED

Chrysanthemoides monilifera subsp. monilifera

is a Weed Of National Significance (WONS)

Boneseed is one of the worst weeds in Australia.

Introduced from South Africa, boneseed is a fast growing, aggressive plant that has no natural enemies in Australia.

Boneseed has escaped from gardens and is now a damaging environmental weed.

BONESEED:

- invades native bushland and forms dense thickets that smother native plants,
- endangers threatened plants and ecological communities,
- alters habitat and displaces food plants of native birds and animals.

WHAT YOU CAN DO TO HELP

- Remove boneseed from your garden or property, as it can spread easily to native bush.
- Report new infestations to your local weeds officer.
- Join a local Coastcare or Landcare group and help remove boneseed from natural areas.
